

f Megan Fox is stressed over her August split from husband Brian Austin Green, it certainly doesn't show on her face. There's not a wrinkle in sight, her skin is luminous and her cheeks are as plump as a baby's. But the gorgeous actress – who has admitted to being insecure about 29-year-old. "She also appears to her looks in the past – may have had some help with her picture-perfect appearance. "I see quite a bit of fillers in her cheeks and lips," notes Philadelphia-area plastic surgeon Dr. Lyle Back, who does not treat the have had very well-done rhinoplasty, which thinned out her nose and sculpted it for a more sophisticated, feminine look." In addition, the mom of two – who joins the cast of the Fox comedy New Girl with a recurring role in January – "likely had Botox to smooth out lines and wrinkles from the upper face and around the eyes," observes Dr. Brian Glatt, a New Jersey plastic surgeon who also does not call Megan a patient. Has the young star gone too far? Not yet, says Dr. Back. "She looks sizzling and sultry," he insists. "But I pray she avoids the standard Hollywood habit of redo, redo, redo." Because becoming a real-life Transformer is a real-life "don't." 💵

BEFORE OR AFTER APPARENT SMILE FIX?

Amy Adams

Back in 2002, left, the actress had a "gummy" smile – meaning a thick ribbon of upper gum was exposed when she grinned. To get her current movie star beam, Amy likely used "Botox on the upper lip and the side of the nose so that her lip doesn't 'ride up' anymore," says NYC cosmetic dentist Dr. Shawn Sadri. "Her smile also appears to have benefited from fillers on both the upper and lower lip." The improvements can run upwards of $4K. But the men we polled thought it was money well spent, preferring the 41-year-old's enhanced expression by a landslide
