

Iggy Azalea's Drastic BBMA Look: Did She Get Plastic Surgery On Chin & Nose?

Whoa, Iggy...is that you?!

The rapper debuted a pretty drastic new face at the Billboard Music Awards on May 17, leading many to speculate that she'd gotten plastic surgery on her nose and chin. Find out what experts have to say!

Iggy Azalea, 24, has already proudly admitted to having breast implants, but has she had even more plastic surgery done!? At the Billboard Music Awards on May 17, Iggy debuted a much more defined nose and chin, and admitted to “Loving my new look” on Instagram. HollywoodLife.com spoke with two experts who helped to break down what the rapper may have had done — get the scoop!

Looking fabulous in a two-piece, blue mini that showed off her amazing abs and long legs, Iggy totally owned the red carpet at the show — but fans couldn't help taking notice of her changed facial features. And, upon comparing photos of the 24-year-old from March and May, experts agree that some work has definitely been done!

Dr. Lyle Back, Board Certified Philadelphia-area Plastic Surgeon said: “Iggy seems to have had her eyes done, a forehead/brow lift, Botox injections around the eyebrows, a nose job, wrinkle filler injections around the mouth, lip enhancement injections, and a chin implant. Iggy is still quite pretty, but now she looks like someone else — I see Christina Applegate crossed with Kaley Cuoco crossed with Keanu Reeves. She is barely recognizable as Iggy. That’s not a fancy (nor desirable) a result to me.”

“It’s obvious that she underwent Rhinoplasty recently, since the nose looks different. It’s shorter, straighter and the tip is rotated upward and narrower,” Dr. Yoel Shahar, a cosmetic plastic surgeon at Natural Look Institute in New York City, told HollywoodLife.com. “She also appears to have had a chin implant that looks pointy and created asymmetric jawlines. A successful outcome!”

Dr. David Cangelo also believes that Iggy had a nose job and chin implant. “The tip of her nose looks much more defined in the May picture, and broader and flatter in the March picture,” he explains. “Her chin definitely looks more projected, as well. It actually appears to be a bit crooked, which can happen as the result of misplacement of a chin implant.”
